

Bibliographies: Documenting Sources Used for Papers with Irvine's Writing about Music

ITHACA COLLEGE

Library

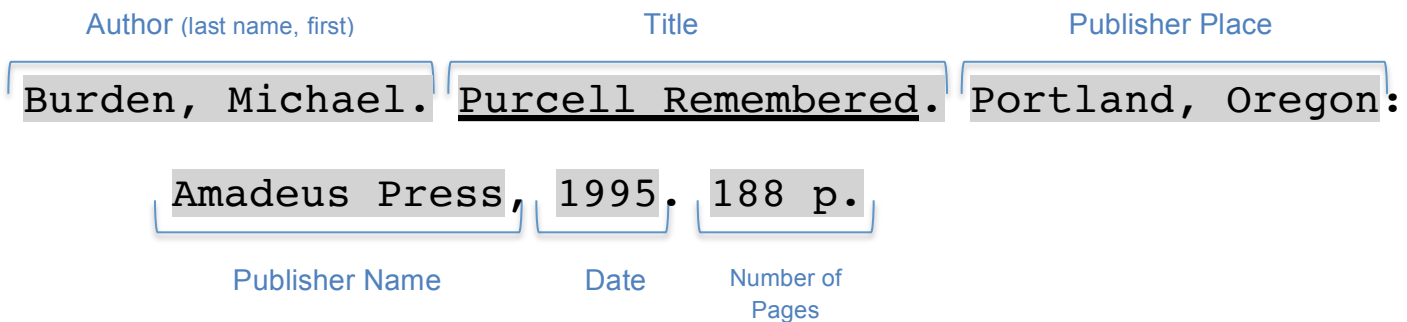

Basic Organization

Your bibliography should be a list of all the sources you've consulted for your research. It is almost always the very last item in your paper, after the text, and after endnotes (if you've used that format).

Resources in your bibliography are arranged alphabetically.

Basic Citation Elements

Each resource that you include in your bibliography is called a citation. And most citations are made up of similar elements (author, title, etc.) that need to be presented in a consistent format. Here's a citation for a book, showing the elements of citation in the correct order and formatting:

But, if you're not using a straightforward one-author book, you might also need to account for a translator, and editor, a multi-volume set, or many other variables. Some of the other variables you might need to include in a citation are:

*multiple author names
*editor(s)

*two titles (article title & journal title)
*edition information

*translator(s)
*web addresses

THAT's why you consult Irvine's – the style guide will show you the correct format depending on the type of resource you've used. Chapter 9 in Irvine's is devoted to style issues with bibliographies.

Bibliography Citations: Examples of Style

Below are several examples for bibliographic citation styles for a variety of sources. These particular examples serve as a quick guide to bibliography citations (NOT endnotes or footnotes). Each example includes the section in Irvine's that discusses the issues you need to consider when citing that specific type of source.

Notice that bibliography citations use what's called a hanging indent: only the 1st line of the citation is lined up with the left margin—all other lines are indented underneath.

K. Shanton, 2016

Books - One Author (§120)

Yudkin, Jeremy. Music in Medieval Europe. Englewood Cliffs, New Jersey: Prentice Hall, 1989. 612 p.

Book - Two or More Authors (§122)

Dart, Thurston, Walter Emery, and Christopher Morris. Editing Early Music: Notes on the Preparation of Printer's Copy. Fair Lawn, New Jersey: Oxford University Press, 1963. 22 p.

Book – No Author (§125)

Baker's Biographical Dictionary of Musicians; 8th ed. Rev. Nicholas Slonimsky. New York: Schirmer Books, 1990. 2,115 p.

E-Book – (example from the ebrary database; not in Irvine's. Note that database name and date of access are included)

Levy, David Benjamin. Beethoven: The Ninth Symphony. Rev. ed. London: Yale University Press, 2003. 232 p. ebrary. (Accessed 20 February 2013).

Essay in a Collection (Chapter in Edited Book or Anthology) (§140)

Brevik, Magnar. "The Representation of Sleep and Death in Berg's Piano Songs, Op. 2." Encrypted Messages in Alban Berg's Music. Ed. Siglind Bruhn. New York: General Music Publishing, 1998. Pp. 109–135.

Journal Article (§138)

Hindley, Clifford. "Why Does Miles Die? A Study of Britten's The Turn of the Screw." Musical Quarterly 74 (1990), 1–17.

(note: The Turn of the Screw is a title of an opera, and so it is underlined. It is a work title within the title of an article. §154 discusses when to put titles in quotes or underline.)

Journal Article from Online Database (Note: only for HTML text. Cite PDF articles as if you used print)

Hill, John Walter. "Thematic Transformation, Folksong, and Nostalgia in Brahms's Horn Trio Op. 40." Musical Times 152, no. 1914 (2011), 20–24. RILM Abstracts of Music Literature. (Accessed 20 August 2014).

Signed Article in Print Dictionary or Encyclopedia (§140)

Griffiths, Paul. "Fires of London." Thames and Hudson Encyclopedia of Twentieth-Century Music. New York: Thames and Hudson, 1986. P. 75.

Signed Article in Online Dictionary or Encyclopedia (note database name, date of access, and url)

Brown, Maurice J. E., and Kenneth L. Hamilton. "Nocturne." Grove Music Online. (Accessed 12 March 2012).

*Unsigned Article in Print Dictionary or Encyclopedia (§141)

Latham, Alison, ed. "Liederkreis." The Oxford Companion to Music. New York: Oxford University Press, 2002. P. 692

*Musical Scores (§142-143)

(note: your score citation format will depend on the type or portion of the work that you're citing. See below)

The example below is for when you're citing the entire score (anthology or single piece):

composer: Maurice Ravel

place of publication: Paris

date of publication: no date is given on score, therefore: n.d.

title: Pavane pour une infant defunte

publisher: Max Eschig

total # of pages: 4

Ravel, Maurice. Pavane pour une infante defunte. Paris: Max Eschig, n.d. 4 p. [original piano solo].

The example below is citing a portion from a larger composition or a collection of pieces:
(like an aria from an opera, or song from a song cycle, or a movement from a sonata, etc.)

composer: Edvard Grieg

larger work: Lyriske Stykker, op.47

editor: F. E. Kirby

place of publication: New York

date of publication: 1986

part you're citing: Springdans (no.6 in op.47)

name of book in which this is found: Music in the Romantic Period

publisher: Schirmer Books

pages of excerpt: "Springdans" is on pp. 819-820.

Grieg, Edvard. "Springdans" from Lyriske Stykker, Op. 47, No.6. Music in the Romantic Period.
Ed. F.E. Kirby. New York: Schirmer Books, 1986. Pp. 819–820.

*Review (§146)

Handel, George Frideric. Agrippina. Nicholas McGegan, cond. Harmonia Mundi CDs 907063-65. c.1992.
This recording of the 1991 Gottingen Festival production reviewed by Mark A. Radice in The Opera Quarterly 10 (Winter 1993/94), [177]–181.

*Recording (CD, Video, or DVD) (§145)

The following example shows a citation for a CD with the following information:

composer: Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart

performers: English Baroque Soloists

Record Label: SDG

CD/Label Number: 711

CD title: Symphonies, no. 39 & 41

Conductor: John Eliot Gardiner

Publication/Release date: 2011

Total time: 30 min., 53 sec.

Mozart, Wolfgang Amadeus. Symphonies, no. 39 & 41. English Baroque Soloists. John Eliot Gardiner, cond.
SDG, 2011. CD 711. Time: 30:53.

Recording (Online via Audio Database)

note: similar elements are used here as in above example, with the addition of the database name and date of access.

Adams, John Luther. Become Ocean. Seattle Symphony. Ludovic Morlot, cond. Canteloupe, 2014. CD CA-21101. Time: 30:53. Naxos Music Library. (Accessed 23 February 2016).

Video Online

London Symphony Orchestra. LSO Futures: Our Work with Today's Composers. Tommy Pearson, ed. Time: 11:24. Site address: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=7v0b6O-zFW8> (Accessed 11 September 2014).

Website (notice the break before the punctuation mark in the url)

Stroh, Patricia. "Prodigy to Progeny: Beethoven as Pupil, Teacher, and Paradigm." The American Beethoven Society. [Web site]. Site address: <http://americanbeethovensociety.org/exhibits/prodigy/prodigyexhibit.html> (Accessed 11 September 2014).

This style guide adapted from Towson University's Revised Irvine Examples for Bibliographic Citations in Music, available online at: http://pages.towson.edu/lwoznick/docs/music/mymusic_citations.pdf